

New shopping and dining guide highlights county’s many choices

September 17, 2009

FOR RELEASE AT WILL

York County has so much to offer in terms of shopping and dining that at times it can be overwhelming to try to decide where to go and what to do.

But have no fear – the county recently put together a guide to help consumers explore the abundance of options.

“We created this brochure to promote York County’s shopping and dining venues to the citizens and area residents, encouraging them to shop and dine locally, to patronize local businesses,” said Senior Business Development Representative Melissa Dickens. “It should help tourists navigate through the area as well, but the main thrust was to promote a ‘Keep it in the County’ mentality.”

The guide divides the county into three regions: Historic Yorktown, the Rt. 17 Corridor, and the Williamsburg Area. The brochure offers a brief description of each region, and lists several shopping and dining options available in each area.

The brochure is available in most county stores and restaurants, as well as area hotels and timeshares. You can also pick up a copy in the county’s Public Information Office or download your own version at http://www.yorkcounty.gov/tourism/PDFs/09\_shpdng\_guid.pdf.
