Tourism Development: LOVE Letters Here Until Sept. 20; Extended Market Days on October 3

- The visiting LOVE Letters, on loan from the Virginia Tourism Corporation, have extended their stay in Yorktown a little longer. We are excited to announce the life-sized artwork currently set up between the Freight Shed and Water Street Grille will remain in place through September 20. The letters will transition from white to green leading up to the inaugural Go Green Market on September 12 – a collaboration between Tourism Development, the Department of Public Works, and the York County Beautification Committee. LOVE will also stay up through the Sister Cities French Market the following Saturday.

- The difficult decision has been made to cancel this year’s Wine Festival scheduled for October 3. This was the most responsible decision for public safety, given the social nature of this event and the inclination to gather in groups while consuming alcohol. In addition to social distancing challenges—in response to the pandemic—many of the vineyards that typically travel to Yorktown for the festival have cancelled outreach efforts and tastings beyond their own respective locations. Organizers of the festival felt it would be difficult to deliver the experience ticket buyers have come to expect from this popular annual event. With the cancellation of the Wine Festival, Yorktown Market Days will be held that day with extended hours of 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. This themed WanderLOVE Market will be a day to focus on celebrating Yorktown. Please stay tuned for more details about involvement from community partners and small businesses in this new venture. Yorktown Market Days is an open air market that enforces required spacing between vendors and is set up to avoid congestion in typically high-traffic areas. Vendors and staff are required to wear face coverings and those who shop are requested to do the same. Anyone with a fever or symptoms of COVID-19, or known exposure to someone with the virus, is not permitted to shop the market.
