Ruth E. Carter: Afrofuturism in

Costume Design Special Exhibition

Extended Through December 1

Jamestown Settlement has extended this special exhibition showcasing the iconic costume designs by two-time Academy Award-winning costume designer Ruth E. Carter, whose work of the past 40 years has defined the style of the Afrofuturism movement. Glimpse powerful garments from film and television such as "Roots," "Amistad," "Malcom X," "Selma," "Do the Right Thing" and "Black Panther," and her immersive process, historical research and attention to detail in every project she brings to life. Exclusive to Jamestown Settlement, Carter's designs converge with historical fashion of the 1600s and 1700s to transcend time periods through a unique comparison of clothing styles and dress.
