FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Hospice care is a testament to the power of humanity. It is a holistic approach that goes beyond medical treatment, focusing instead on the quality of life for those with life-limiting illnesses. At its core, this care is about providing comfort, dignity, and respect during the final stages of life. It recognizes that every individual's end-of-life experience is unique, deserving personalized attention that honors their wishes and needs.

In essence, our work at Hospice House is about helping guests and loved ones embrace life even in its final moments. It is a compassionate acknowledgment that while we may not be able to change the outcome, we can certainly influence the journey. It teaches us the importance of empathy, love, and presence, reminding us that every moment, no matter how brief, is precious.

We are honored to be here to give these precious moments to the families we serve. For some, it's an hour reflecting on wonderful memories by the bedside. For others, it's simply sitting in silence with the French doors open listening to birds sing while the breeze softly blows. Oftentimes, loved ones share that being at Hospice House allowed them to feel peace in the midst of the storm. And we acknowledge that the peace we provide is only possible because of the wonderful people like you who support us.

2024 was a year of progress and transition for our organization. We completed our first phase of renovations, and phase two is right around the corner. I am excited to share that we will have a brand new Hospice House on the inside by the end of the year. This incredible transformation is made possible in large part by the generosity of the Wise and Nichols families in memory of their patriarch, Mr. Sterling Nichols. We appreciate your patience and understanding as we ready the house for the next forty plus years of service.

On behalf of our board and staff, thank you for being on the journey with us.
